KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

Investment in UITF exposes the investors to various types of risks including but not limited to:

- Interest Rate Risk : This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in interest rates. The purchase and sale of a debt instrument may result in profit or loss because the value of a debt instrument changes inversely with prevailing interest rates.
- Market/Price Risk : This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in market prices of securities (e.g., bonds and equities). It is the exposure to the uncertain market value of a portfolio due to price fluctuations.
- Liquidity Risk : This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to the inability to sell or convert assets into cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a loss.
- Credit Risk/Default Risk : This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to a borrower's failure to pay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans, or other forms of security which the borrower issued.
- Reinvestment Risk : This is the risk associated with the possibility of having lower returns or earnings when maturing funds or the interest earnings of funds are reinvested.
- Other Risk : Your participation in the UITFs may be further exposed to the risk of any actual or potential conflicts of interest in the handling of in-house or related party.

PSBank Money Market Fund uses a defined Risk Management policy in identifying and measuring level of risks. The Fund uses weighted modified duration in evaluating market risk for investment in fixed income securities. Modified Duration measures the approximate sensitivity of the value of the security to changes in interest rates. Interest rates have an adverse relationship with fixed income security prices so that an increase in interest rates generally leads to decrease in fixed income prices and vice versa. The higher the duration of an instrument, the higher its risk (considering all other factors are equal).

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Month-on-month, yields on government securities decreased by 19 bps on the average with the 91-day T-bills closing at 5.75% down by 7bps for the same period following lower US treasury yields and as buying interest on government securities persisted especially on the long end of the curve. Meanwhile, the government plans to borrow P185 billion worth of T-bills and T-bonds in June, Php10Bn higher than the previous month's GS auction. The Fund's 30-day and year-to-date absolute performance was at 0.372% and 1.71% vs. benchmark of 0.391% and 1.671% respectively, while duration stood at 0.05-year as maturities were re-invested in short term fixed income instruments. Headline inflation in May declined to 6.1% from 6.6% in April (in line with consensus forecast of 6.1%). This is still higher than the BSP's target range for inflation of 2.0-4.0%. This brings the average headline inflation from Jan-May 2023 to 7.5%. Core inflation also declined to 7.7% from 7.9% in April. The lower headline inflation was primarily due to lower fuel prices and lower prices of certain food products during the month.

After raising interest rates by 25bps during its FOMC meeting last May, the Federal Reserve hinted at a pause in its tightening cycle this June. However, some Fed officials have said that it may be too early to predict if the Fed is done hiking rates and shall keep raising rates as an available option should inflation persist. Meanwhile, the Monetary Board paused its rate hikes during the MB meeting last May 18 after inflation declined for the third straight month. However, a 25bps rate hike is still possible later in the year as core inflation remains elevated and the risks to inflation remain tilted to the upside resulting from potential food supply disruptions due to El Niño, higher utility prices, and higher wages. These factors could contribute to a reversal in the downward trend of inflation in the coming months and lead to increased volatility. Looking ahead, any potential rate hike may still cause domestic interest rates to marginally rise which, in turn, may lead to lower mark-to-market values in the short-term. The Fund will remain invested in short term fixed income instruments to take advantage of higher yields which could provide better accrual for the Fund.
